STATE TROOPS MOBILIZED FOR MOVEMENT TO MINE WAR ZONE

Death List in Williamson County, Illinois, Massacre May Mount to Forty, Reports Show

25 BODIES ARE RECOVERED

No Signs of Disturbance Seen in Sleepy, Quiet Country Village of Herrin Today

STRIKERS REMAIN AT HOME

Sympathizers Believe Guilty Will Go Unpunished—"Committed Suicide," They Say

(By United Press)

Chicago, June 23—One thousand troops were mobilized here today on orders of Governor Len Small and held in readiness to move into the Williamson county coal mine district in case of further rioting.

Springfield, Ill., June 23—Three machine gun companies and two infantry of the 130th infantry and parts of the 131st and 132nd infantry are included in the one thousand men who were ordered by Governor Len Small to be held in readiness for instant movement into the Williamson county trouble zone.

Herrin, Ill., June 23—Seventeen bodies lying on crude stretchers in an improvised morgue here, were the only evidence left today of the bitter mine battle fought on the outskirts of this peaceful country village.

This sleepy, quiet country town, with pretty bungalows and homes and few signs of being a mining community, was quiet and peaceful.

There were no miners with guns on their hips, or carrying sticks of dynamite.

The day was hot and about seventy-five men sat around the city hall in overalls, peacefully smoking pipes.

The morgue, located on a little side street, was locked.

A few curious had faces pressed against the windows looking at the sheet-covered bodies within.

At mine union headquarters, the door was locked. An old gray headed guard said all of the boys were out "picking berries."

W. E. Sneed, state senator and chief union official in this district, had gone to Springfield to consult with state authorities.

LACK OF STATE FUNDS TO PREVENT INQUIRY

Attorney General Of Illinois Says
Can't Assist In Investigating
Miners Massacre

PROBE SHOULD BE MADE

Waukegan, Ill., June 23—Lack of funds will prevent any state aid in an investigation of the "bloody Williamson war massacre," Attorney General Edward J. Brundage said today.

"The attorney general's office is the only one empowered to conduct an investigation and prosecution if local authorities are unable to do their duty," the attorney general said.

A thorough investigation should be made immediately and the guilty punished, Brundage declared.

The governor, who has already sent telegrams to local county authorities asking what steps have been taken to prevent further trouble and prosecute the guilty, said he would wait a "few hours longer" before taking any further steps.

"Those guilty of the outbreak must be punished," the governor said.

A comprehensive and full investigation should be under way now."

The Governor said he could not state what steps would next be taken by state officials in case local authorities did not respond to his demands for investigation and prosecution.

TWO MINERS KILLED AT CLARKSBURG, W. VA.

Rioting Breaks Out When Strikers Attack Street Cars Carrying Mine Deputies

DEAD MEN ARE FOREIGNERS

(By United Press)

Clarksburg, W. Va., June 23.—Rioting broke out in the coal strike here today when two mines were killed in a battle between two hundred strikers and a crowd of deputies and employees of the Hudson Coal Company.

Strikers attacked a street car carrying the deputies and employees to the Lewis mine near Reynoldsburg.

Stones and pieces of iron were hurled at the car and were met by two shots by the deputies and Jim Marabito and Marcelline Stallato, strikers, fell dead.

Twenty-two arrests were made, including three women.

Between four and five hundred striking miners live in the Clarksburg district.

The mine was said to have opened Monday when strikebreakers were imported and work started on half time schedule.

centive board, was the next ranking official left in Herrin. He told the union side of the story.

Last week I went out to the mine of the Southern Illinois Coal Company and called on Superintendent J. B. McDowell to ask him to cease operating with strikebreakers.

McDowell told me to "get to hell off of this property."

Willis then related how telegrams were sent to John L. Lewis and Frank Farrington, international union chiefs, asking them the status of the men employed in the mine and the reply that they were "common strike breakers."

At mine union headquarters, the door was locked. An old gray headed guard said all of the boys were out "picking berries."

At Marion, Ill., June 23—Streets of southern Illinois mining towns were quiet today. The massacre of at least twenty-one strike breakers was a closed subject.

A few small groups which formed on the streets of Marion, Herrin and other mining communities from which the mob of 2,000 was recruited, talked in hushed tones and usually in foreign tongues.

The strike sympathizers believe that the guilty will not be punished.

"They committed suicide," or "they attempted to escape and were shot" were the two explanations of the killings most given when anyone was found who would talk.

For the most part, however, the striking miners remained in their homes.

Even the local papers failed to give the killings much display.

The total number of bodies recovered was brought up to 25 today. Seventeen were in the morgue at Herrin while the others were taken to their homes.

Official investigation into the massacre of from twenty-one to forty strikebreakers here, was delayed today.

As far as could be learned, no agency had yet made a move to punish those guilty of the attacks and murders.

Officials took the attitude that it would be impossible to obtain identification of any of the mob leaders, due to the evasiveness of the attackers and impossibility of obtaining competent witnesses.

Date for the inquest had not been set and it probably will be postponed until next week.

Feeling was still running high here today and mine operators were ordered by officials not to make any further attempt to operate with non-union labor.

Feeling against C. A. McDowell, superintendent of the mine who was the first slain, was still so bitter in Herrin that his body was moved to a morgue in a neighboring city in secrecy. Officials feared that the

FALLS OVER IRON RAILING

William Beher is Painfully Hurt in Front of Princess Theater

William Beher, son of Dr. and Mrs. Carl Beher, met with a painful accident Thursday night in front of the Princess theater, when he caught his foot on the iron railing which surrounded the grass near the theater, and fell.

He fell with such force that it dazed him, and he was struck above the forehead, sustained a badly sprained leg, and ligaments were strained in his right arm, but no bones were broken. He was able to be out today, but his injuries are painful.

ORA CLINE MUST SERVE SENTENCE

Appellate Court Affirms Decision
Here Carrying With it Sentence
Of 120 Days

ALSO FINED $50 BY JURY

Ruling Finally Received in Case
Pending 2 Years—Prosecuting
Witness Dead

The Appellate court of Indiana this afternoon affirmed the decision rendered by a jury in the Rush circuit court on March 24, 1920, in the case of the State against Ora Cline, a farmer living southwest of Rushville, who was charged with encouraging delinquency. The jury on that date imposed a fine of $50 and a sentence of 120 days at the state penal farm.

For over two years the case has been pending before the higher court, as appealed by the defendant in one of the largest briefs ever sent from this court, requiring several hundred sheets.

The defendant was arrested, according to the court docket, on Feb. 2, 1920, but the case was not tried until in March. Judge Freemont Miller, regular judge of the Johnson county court of Franklin, Ind., was the special judge in the case, and after the jury had found Cline guilty, he filed a motion for a new trial which was overruled. The case was appealed on May 6, 1920.

The defendant was charged with encouraging delinquency on Gladys Smith, a 17 year old girl of his neighborhood, who started the city with evidence concerning her conduct at a former trial, when she prosecuted her father for illicit relations. The girl, it is understood, died a few months ago from tuberculosis, at the home of her mother in Chicago.

The two cases when tried here in the spring of 1920, were unusual, as the testimony relating to the facts in the cases were practically all of an unprintable nature. The jury in the case when the girl was the prosecuting witness against her father, failed to reach an agreement and the case was dropped.

Then after this case, the state pushed the charge against Cline, who had been indicted, and the jury decided that he was guilty of having caused the girl to become a delinquent.

The clerk of the circuit court had not received any communication this afternoon of the decision of the higher court, but the message was received by the Republican to that effect. Since the decision has been affirmed, it will mean that the defendant will be compelled to serve the sentence imposed over two years ago.

Sons of American Revolution Revived at Dinner Given by Earl H. Payne, Thursday Night

STATE PRESIDENT ATTENDS

Cornelius F. Posson of Brazil Outlines Purposes and Activities of the Society

The Gen. P. A. Hackleman chapter of the Sons of the American Revolution, of this city, was revived and reorganized at a dinner tendered the members Thursday evening by Earl H. Payne at his home, corner of Main and Seventh streets, in honor of Cornelius F. Posson of Brazil, state president of the Sons of the American Revolution, who paid the Rushville chapter an official visit.

The old officers of the chapter were re-elected by unanimous vote and steps were taken to conduct a membership campaign as there are known to be a number of other men in Rush county eligible to membership.

Mr. Posson in a short address following the dinner, outlined the activities of the state organization and recited some of the accomplishments of the individual chapters in the state.

He pointed out that the society offers the most practical way of honoring a man's patriotic forefathers and preserves for future generations the family pedigree of members back to the revolution, and that it also continues public interest in the men and events of the American Revolution. It also teaches to the youths of the families of members, he continued, important lessons of patriotism and good citizenship.

Mr. Posson told how through investigation of the society, the unmarked grave of William Taft, who participated in the Boston tea party and fought at Valley Forge, had been discovered in a bramble-grown graveyard, near Elkhart, and said that it would soon be suitably marked by his descendants as well as by the state society.

Mr. Posson also cited examples where chapters had been effective in causing the Declaration of Independence to be read at Fourth of July celebrations and had otherwise exerted their influence to revive interest in historic events in connection with the founding of this nation.

Short talks were made by Dr. F. G. Hackleman, president of the local chapter; A. L. Gary, secretary; Louis Mauzy, former secretary of the state society; Mr. Payne, former state president; Hugh Mauzy, registrar of the local chapter; Austin Frazee and John A. Titsworth.

ATTENDING RURAL SCHOOL CONFERENCE

W. E. Wagoner to Address Meeting
Twice and Take Part in Pageant
Held This Week.

SESSIONS AT TERRE HAUTE

W. E. Wagoner, county school superintendent is in Terre Haute, taking an active part in the Rural School conference held there. A pageant, "The Patriot of Mt. Vernon," given by a cast picked from teachers and school heads all over the state, was presented Thursday night and will be repeated tonight. Prof. Wagoner takes part in the pageant and has the role of Stephen Hopkins.

The two meetings are held jointly because practically all of the school superintendents are attending the rural conference. The Rushville man is also on the program before the superintendents for two talks, one on "How a Sane Use of Standard Tests Would Improve Our Public School System," and "Latin and Greek in the High Schools."

Prof. Wagoner also was elected to the resolutions committee and the nominating committee, which will re-elect the superintendents for two talks, one on "How a Sane Use of Standard Tests Would Improve Our Public School System," and "Latin and Greek in the High Schools."

SUMMER COMES IN, HEAT CONTINUES

High Temperatures and Fair Weather Predicted With Soil Badly in Need of Rain

FAVORABLE TO WHEAT CUTTING

Summer, which was officially ushered in Thursday is in keeping with the keynote for hot weather, although the nights are more like autumn weather. The mercury Thursday and today mounted up to between 89 and 95 degrees around noon, and during the night the temperature has fallen to around 55 and 60 degrees.

The continued warm and dry weather is most favorable to wheat cutting, and especially has the coolness of the early mornings been appreciated by the farmers who have taken advantage of them, and reached their fields soon after sunrise.

The corn is badly in need of a rain in almost every section of the country, and most of the garden products also are in need of a good, gentle downpour.

The weather man, however, who has been a good guesser this week, does not see any sign of rain in sight, and predicts that on Saturday fair weather will prevail, and that the mercury will go up a few notches.

CATTLE FEEDERS MEET AT PURDUE

Experiment Station Finds That The Full Feed of Corn is the Best Producer For Gain in Weight

DISCUSS FEEDING RESULTS

Herd of Two Year Old Steers Were Put on Test in January and Results of Gain Tabulated

If you are going to feed two year old steers for market and feed them corn give them a full feed of it throughout the entire feeding period or a full feed during the last half of the period," said F. G. King of the Agricultural Experiment Station at Purdue University at the recent meeting of the Indiana Cattle Feeders' Association at the University. He was discussing the results of the annual steer feeding experiments at Purdue during the past winter and spring.

"If you want to save corn in your feeding operations keep it away from the cattle entirely until the last half of the feeding period," was the advice from Prof. King, based on seven years of experimental results. "Don't feed them only half as much corn as they ought to have."

Seventy head of two year old steers which weighed approximately 950 pounds each when they were put in the feed lots in January were divided in seven different lots and fed different rations to test out the value of different amounts of corn when fed with silage, clover, hay and cotton seed meal.

The lot receiving the standard Purdue ration (full feed of corn, cotton seed meal, clover hay and silage throughout the 140 day feeding period showed the best rate of gain and were valued the highest but did not return the greatest profit. The profit on this lot was $7.10 per steer and $12.67 including pork put on by hogs following the cattle. The lot receiving the same ration except the cotton seed was omitted showed a profit of $9.80 per head and $15.42 including pork.

"It is only profitable to feed cotton seed when 100 bushels of corn can be exchanged for a ton or more of it, indicating that it was not profitable the past year," said Mr. King.

The cattle receiving corn the last half of the feeding period showed a better profit than those receiving a full feed the whole time because of the cheaper cost of gains. The profit per steer in this lot was $9.13 and $13.71 including pork. The lot of steers receiving no corn at all showed a profit of $5.84 per head and the hogs that followed them lacked 8¢ of paying for the extra feed which they ate. Those on half feed of corn during the entire period showed a profit of $5.87 per steer and $9.93 including pork.

These figures show that the full feed of corn or corn the last half of the feeding period are more profitable than feeding a half feed of corn or no corn at all; also that it is not profitable to feed the cotton seed meal unless 100 bushels of corn can be exchanged for a ton or more of it.

Two lots of light cattle being compared with the heavier ones are not yet finished and will be fed another 60 days before a report will be made on them.

SERUM WILL PROTECT SWINE

Erroneous impression prevails that hog cholera will be eradicated in few years.

Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.

The impression that hog cholera is a disease that will be eliminated before many years through the use of anti-hog-cholera serum has been spread throughout the country, but there is little ground for such a belief, says the United States Department of Agriculture. The serum treatment, when properly given, will protect hogs against the disease, but it does not go to the source and eliminate the germs from the country, which would be necessary if hog cholera is to become a thing of the past. It might be possible to eliminate the disease if every hog in the United States could be kept immunized all of the time, but such a measure would be impractical, if not impossible.

Hog cholera is of varying prevalence, both as to the time of the year and as to periods of several years. In the fall—October and November—there is more of this disease than in the other months. The number of hogs per thousand affected by it changes greatly from year to year, also. There have been years, such as 1857, 1897 and 1913, when cholera raged throughout the corn belt, causing great losses to farmers. In the years intervening between these high points the losses were relatively low.

Since 1913 hog cholera has been but slightly prevalent as compared with the worst years, but there is no assurance that other great waves of the disease will not occur as they did before serum was used. It has been but eight years since the last high point in losses from cholera, and the records of the Department of Agriculture show that the period between the high points of prevalence is usually 10 years or longer.

This fall there are reports of increased losses from cholera, but some increase is to be expected every fall.

The lot receiving the standard Purdue ration (full feed of corn, cotton seed meal, clover hay and silage throughout the 140 day feeding period showed the best rate of gain and were valued the highest but did not return the greatest profit. The profit on this lot was $7.10 per steer and $12.67 including pork put on by hogs following the cattle. BLOODHOUNDS HIT TRAIL AT AUBURN

Attempt Made To Clear Mysterious Murder Of James W. Sheffer And Shooting Of His Wife

HOUSE ONCE DYNAMITED

(By United Press)

Auburn, Ind., June 23.—Bloodhounds struck a trail here today to clear the mysterious murder of James W. Sheffer, prominent resident of Auburn, and the probably fatal shooting of his wife.

Three shots were fired into Sheffer's body and he fell dead. Two bullets entered Mrs. Sheffer's body and she is in a critical condition. They were entering their garage late last night returning home from a band concert.

"There were shots and shots and shots," said Mrs. Sheffer. "I thought they never would get through shooting. The shots seemed to be coming up from below."

A son and a daughter, the only children of Mr. and Mrs. Sheffer, were killed in January 1921, when their home was dynamited and destroyed. The parents were injured at that time, too. Following the explosion, Nie Sheffer, a brother, was arrested, but was released later.

LOCAL CHAPTER IS REORGANIZED

Mr. Posson said that young men who had attained the age of eighteen years were now eligible to membership, but that they had no voting power in the state society until they had become of age. This rule was made to interest youths in historic events, he said.

Any man shall be eligible to membership in the society who, meeting the age qualifications and being a citizen of good repute in the community, is the lineal descendant of an ancestor who was at all times unfailing in his loyalty to, and rendering active service in cause of American independence, either as an officer, soldier, seaman, marine, militiaman or minute man, in the armed force of the Continental congress, or of any one of the several colonies or states, as a signer of the Declaration of Independence, as a member of the committee of safety or correspondence, or as a member of any Continental, Provincial or Colonial congress or legislature, or as a recognized patriot who performed actual service by overt acts of resistance to the authority of Great Britain.

The Gen. P. A. Hackleman chapter was organized by Mr. Payne in Rushville on February 12, 1918, but the organization was not active because of the war and was never revived at the conclusion of the conflict.

PERSHING MEMORIAL HOSPITAL IS READY

Building Erected in Memory of Gen. Pershing's Wife and Children Who Burned to Death

WAS A WYOMING BELLE

Cheyenne, Wyo., June 22—Wyoming's most beautiful hospital is nearing completion, the Frances Warren Memorial hospital, a monument to the wife of General John J. Pershing and their three children who lost their lives in a fire at the Presidio, San Francisco, August 27, 1915.

Although the $400,000 structure is already practically completed, improvements, costing approximately $350,000 are to be added.

The hospital was made possible through a tax levy and through the gifts of wealthy Wyoming residents. Senator Frances E. Warren of Wyoming was among those to contribute toward a fund for a memorial for his daughter.

The main building contains 68 private rooms; 6 four-bed wards; 2 five-bed wards and 2 six-bed children's wards with sun porches. The hospital is modern in every respect and with the addition of future improvements, will be one of the finest in the West.

Frances Warren Pershing was one of Wyoming's leading belles and as the wife of General Pershing, who was near here, was the leader in Cheyenne's social activities. Her marriage to the then Captain Pershing in Washington was one of the most brilliant events of President Roosevelt's administration.

After the tragic death of Mrs. Pershing and her three small children, the bodies were brought here and buried in the Warren lot.

Indiana Supreme Court Affirms Decision of Wells-Blackford Circuit in Simmons Case

SUIT TO TEST THE STATUTE

Indianapolis, Ind., June 23.—The supreme court of Indiana today upheld the state voters registration law. It affirmed the decision of the Wells-Blackford circuit in the case of Abraham Simmons, an attorney, testing the law against John Byrd.

The supreme court held that the legislature has power to determine what requirements shall be complied with by qualified voters so long as the requirements are not grossly unlimited and that the compliance therewith is not impossible.

Since the legislature has power to provide by law for the registration of all voters, it has power to exclude from the privilege of voting those persons who refuse or neglect to register a lawful number of days before the election, the court ruled.

State Troops Mobilized For Movement to Mine War Zone

strike sympathizers might make an effort to obtain his body and precipitate a new outbreak.

It was believed that all except three or four of the fifty-one strikebreakers who fell into hands of the mob when they stormed the stockade, were either killed or injured.

No members of the attackers were found who would tell their story of the events of the massacre.

The word was passed around that the strikebreakers and guard were killed while marching to Herrin when they made an attempt to escape.

This was denied by the survivors of the strike breakers.

Colonel Samuel N. Hunter who is representing the national guard on the ground, said today as far as he knew no investigation into the killings were under way and that no arrests had been made.

Colonel Hunter pointed out that the military authorities could do nothing to punish the men who are guilty unless the district was under martial law.

The following telegram was today received by Sheriff Thaxton, from Governor Small at Waukegan:

"I insist on an immediate reply to my telegram in relation to the riots and disorders, giving detailed and accurate information of what steps have been and are now being taken by you for the apprehension of the parties who committed these crimes and to prevent further difficulties or violations of the law."

The casualties in "bloody" Williamson's mine war massacre will reach forty, according to reports of military authorities today.

Twenty-one men, imported from Chicago labor agencies under the impression that they were to work in union strip mines, are known to have met horrible deaths as strikebreakers. Their bodies are in morgues in Herrin and Marion.

The massacre of workers in the southern Illinois Coal Company's mine eight miles northwest of here, climaxed a bitter fight of forty years between union and non-union forces in Williamson county.

Rioting quieted down after the 2,000 striking miners and sympathizers, driven to wild frenzy through mob action, shot down the imported strikebreakers and guards as they "made a run for it" across a field near Herrin. Sixteen injured from buckshot, rifle and revolver bullet wounds and from beatings and bruises, were under care here and in Herrin. Some bodies were horribly mutilated.

Colonel Samuel N. Hunter of the National Guard staff, after a thorough survey of conditions in the county, stated he did not believe troops would be needed now unless some further attempt to operate mines was made. All mines in this vicinity were shut down today.

The slaughter came at the end of a twenty-four hour battle for the fortified mine.

Guards, who had successfully held off the mob, raised a white flag shortly before noon Thursday. Water pipes had been cut, and food supply destroyed when a carload of supplies was blown up.

The men inside of the stockade made an unconditional surrender, with little thought of what was in store for them.

After having given up their arms, the strikebreakers and guards were tied together with ropes in squads of six and a march toward Herrin began.

Few could be found who would tell the details of the bloody slaughter.

Most of the strikebreakers and guards were dead, too injured to talk or were missing and had escaped.

Mouths of the men who were in the mob were closed through fear of prosecution or because they were sickened by the awful spectacle.

Fred Bernard, one of the workers in the mine, who escaped injury from the hands of the mob through the pass word of a fraternal order, described events. He was unconscious for some time from the beating which he received, however, and could not tell all of the facts.

Bernard said he was hired by a Chicago labor agency to work as cook for a steam shovelers' union gang.

"I was engaged by the Bertrand employment agency of Chicago," Bernard said. "I think most of the men who were working in the mine were hired by the same company."

"I reported for work on Tuesday. I now understand that we were warned to quit the mine by union leaders, but none of the warnings ever reached the men. I do not know whether the bosses received these warnings or not."

"Many of the other men had come to work under the same representations which were made to me."

"The first crowd of miners started to march on the works late Wednesday afternoon.

"The guards—I think there were about thirty—were heavily armed and equipped with a machine gun. They wanted the kitchen crew to take up arms but were refused. We hid in gondolas on the tracks inside the barricade of slack."

"Bullets struck all around us during the afternoon and night."

"We crouched down. I don't think any one inside the barricade was hurt in Wednesday's firing, although several miners were reported killed and injured."

"The first heavy attack Thursday morning came at sun rise."

"As the attackers came howling toward the barricade, the guards fought them off."

"After the strikebreakers had been driven back once, they apparently obtained reinforcements and about 10 a.m. another attack started."

"Some one raised a white flag and the crowd of men and women came yelling over the barricade."

"We were frisked for arms, then lined up and tied together in groups of six."

"We didn't know what we were in for."

"Most of the boys didn't realize it I guess, until they were shot, but when I took a look at the red blood, shot eyes of some of our captors, I felt the end was near. Many of the attackers were reeling drunk."

"They forced us to start marching toward Herrin. As we walked, they struck us with their fists, and then started to hammer us with revolvers."

"McDowell, the superintendent of the mine, headed the line. He walked with a slight limp and they apparently took delight in torturing him."

"After we marched several miles, we were called up in groups and ordered to 'make a run for it' into a field."

"McDowell's group was the first one to be called out and I believe McDowell was the first man killed."

"As the men ran into the field, rifles and revolvers cracked from all parts of the mob."

"I was in the second group called up. When I was told to run, I felt the rifles and revolvers leveled at my back and pitched forward on the ground. My companion, Joe Williams, fell with me."

"My son found I was playing possum and I was jerked to my feet. As a last resort, I asked if 'there was a brother in the crowd.' A man then stepped forward and pleaded with the crowd to save my life. I was escorted to safety out of the firing zone before any more were killed."

"Members of the attacking crowd who would talk claimed that strikebreakers attempted to escape during the march to Herrin which resulted in the shooting."

"That was the word spread when scattered members of the mob brought the word to Marion, Herrin and other towns from which the attacking forces were recruited."

"We didn't shoot them—they committed suicide," was the way one mob member explained it.

"Women and children lined the streets of Herrin, Marion, Harrisburg and West Frankfort waiting for news of the drive on the 'scabs.'

"As fliers rolled into the villages, riders were greeted as heroes as they spread the word:

"They are not coming in—they broke away."

"It is believed that practically every one of the 51 strikebreakers in the mine were killed or wounded."

"The mine presented a picture of ruin."

"Twisted steel, shattered timber and machinery littered the pit as the search for additional bodies got under way. The property loss was estimated at $250,000."

"Nature Does Work Better."

"One of the shop windows along Fifth avenue has been displaying a big purple iris made of paper with a tiny electric light inside, transforming it into an incandescent lily. But sometimes, if you are watchful in the garden on a dark summer night, you may see how nature does this more delicately. Once in a great while a firefly tarry inside some silken iris, shining through the petals with a rich and intermittent glow.—New York Evening Post."

While in Rushville She Will Call On Several Ladies By Appointment

Have you heard your friends say, when speaking of the popularity of some other woman, "What is there about her that attracts people to her so quickly?"

Let us answer this question for you. That woman, whose presence is felt at any gathering, knows first of all how to safeguard the clear skin and healthy complexion that Nature has endowed her with; she realizes that

To Neglect the Skin is to Forfeit Its Attractiveness

She also has the good sense to know that to get the best results she must follow the advice of someone who has successfully specialized in the beautifying of complexions, just as you seek the services of a specialist in time of sickness.

That's What Mrs. Prentiss IS—A Toilet Goods Specialist Who Has Succeeded in Her Profession

That's why we contracted for a week of her services for the women of Rushville.

Mrs. Prentiss Will Give You a Personal Demonstration of Jantel Toilet Requisites in Your Own Home Free of Charge

She will show you by actual massage how you can get the best results. If you are interested in your skin—and you should be—Mrs. Prentiss will be glad to show you how you can retain or restore its original attractiveness.

She Arrives Monday, the 26th, and Will Be With Us Until Saturday, July 1st

Understand her massage and advice on skin treatment costs you nothing whatsoever. Let us know when she may call upon you, and we will be glad to make the necessary arrangements.

We want you to understand that by having Mrs. Prentiss call on you that you are not obligating yourself in the slightest. She is not selling goods—just demonstrating.

PREMIUM LIST FOR SHOW ISSUED

International Grain and Hay Show to be Held in Connection With Livestock Exposition at Chicago

OFFER $10,000 IN PREMIUMS

The premium list has been issued for the International Grain and Hay Show to be held at Chicago Dec. 2 to 9, in connection with the International Livestock Exposition. It is being mailed to Indiana corn and small grain growers who have exhibited in this show in other years and to members of the Indiana Corn Growers' Association.

The Chicago Board of Trade again has offered $10,000 in premium which will be divided between the grain and hay entries with a larger portion of the prizes going to corn producers. Wheat, oats, rye, barley, k稷, corn, milo maize, small seeds including alfalfa, red clover, alsike, sweet clover, and timothy, soybeans, cowpeas and field peas, will receive their just share of the prize money.

BEGIN THE DAY RIGHT:
Cause me to hear Thy loving kindness in the morning; for in Thee do I trust; cause me to know Thy way wherein I should walk; for I lift up my soul unto Thee.—Psalm 143: 8.

City Park Protection

Extra effort has been made during the week to improve the city park and make it an inviting place for the people of Rushville to enjoy. The city park board has had the co-operation of school boys who are taking a summer recreation course under A. F. Cotton. The grass has been mowed and the debris gathered up and burned. The playground equipment has been repaired and added to so that children may derive some benefit from it.

Reports today were to the effect that a crowd of rowdies was in the park Thursday night and took possession of the playground apparatus while children stood about and watched them. Most of them were young men who had reached an age where this form of amusement should no longer attract them.

The point is that the playground equipment is for children and people of this character should not be allowed to destroy it. The city park was once well equipped as a recreation center for children, but grown rowdies were allowed to take possession of the place, with the result that much of it was destroyed.

Traction Lines And Highways

(The Red Line, published by the Indianapolis & Cincinnati Traction Co.)

The following article, reprinted from the Elkhart Truth, has been printed in other newspapers throughout the state. We do not vouch for the accuracy of the statements it makes, for we have no way of knowing the source of the information on which the statements are based. So much has been said, however, on the subject, that it is only fair to set forth the truth. The Elkhart paper says:

"Electric railways, which form a network throughout Indianapolis, are feeling automobile competition in both freight and passenger service resulting in their complaint to the state tax board that their money paid out in taxes goes for the building of roads that encourages their competition."

"Apparently, the railways have made a case before the state tax board, which now is holding hearings preparatory to the making of the tax appraisements on various corporations assessed by it. Indications favor a reduction of the appraisements, which amounted to $64,825,000 last year for the 36 companies operating in the state. The companies have 2,275 miles of track.

"The appraisements that will be made by the board are yet a matter of conjecture, but in explaining the revenues of the electric railways, the board has been told that the interurban lines generally have been 'hit hard' by automobile competition.

"Throughout the state the board has been informed that hard surface roads have been built by public funds raised from taxation, and that these generally parallel the electric railroads, and then turn such facilities over to the companies for private operation without regulation.

"With the road improvements, according to the railroad men, comes the automobile, usually the truck first seeking the freight business and then the auto-bus, seeking the passenger service. The hard surface road, from the viewpoint of the railroad men makes competition easy for the automobile and the complaint to the tax board by the railway men is that they pay more in taxes for building the roads than do their competitors."

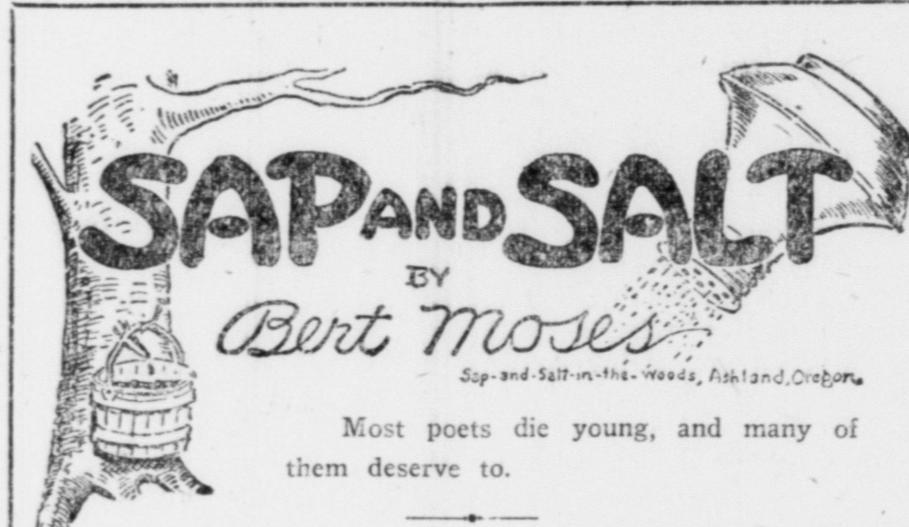

Disclaiming again any responsibility for the truth of the foregoing article, the Red Line wishes to make this statement: No business man should be expected to contribute to the support of his competitor. Yet the Red Line is in exactly that position. Buses and trucks pay practically no taxes in support of the good roads that make their operation possible. Taxpayers generally provide facilities for the buses and trucks, and maintain these facilities.

The Red Line is a heavy taxpayer, and therefore is in the position of helping to maintain its competitor.

Last year the Red Line paid in taxes in Rush County, $9,548.61; Fayette County, $7,138.32; Hancock, $2,126.73; Decatur, $2,972.83; Shelby, $7,188.32, and Marion County, $6,123.46.

Of each hundred dollars in taxes last year, the cause of good roads took from Fayette County, $13.59; from Rush County, 30.06; Shelby, $26.09; Decatur, $37.11; Hancock, $28.09; and Marion, $7.08. The Red Line paid a total of $29,883.06 in taxes and following the county allotments for roads, $7,095, in round numbers, went from the Red Line to the highways. That was the traction company's contribution to the support of buses and trucks, which are not regulated and which contribute nothing to the upkeep of the roads they use.

We have no wish to be put in the position of complaining, but since the foregoing newspaper article has been published throughout the state, it is only fair that the facts should be set forth. Taxpayers do not seem right."

to care very much if they are called upon to provide facilities for commercial vehicles, but they would probably let out a terrific howl if they were called upon to build and maintain rights of way and trackage for the interurban lines and steam railroads, and then turn such facilities over to the companies for private operation without regulation.

Highway Commission Receives Proposals For 84 Miles

(By United Press)

Indianapolis, Ind., June 23.—The state highway commission today opened bids on 84 miles of state roads. This is a part of the state's $1,500,000 secondary road program. Thirty road projects in nineteen counties are to be let in nine contracts.

Proposals, according to John Williams, director of the commission, are invited on three types of construction: surface treatment, bituminous top, and penetration top.

These projects comprise 28 road sections that are located in twenty different counties. The counties in which they are located are: Floyd, Clark, Harrison, Dearborn, Jefferson, Lawrence, Monroe, Wayne, Delaware, Grant, Marion, Montgomery, Allen, Elkhart, Laporte, Lake Carroll, Cass and Marshall.

WALTER HAGEN TAKES THE LEAD

Dutch Reather, Brooklyn pitcher, turned in his 12th victory of the season, in beating the league leading Giants. The Brooklyn southpaw won his own game with a sacrifice fly.

Jack Quinn, last year a Yank, turned back his former team mates, winning for Boston, 6 to 2.

The Browns failed to profit by the further Yankee slump, however, going down before Ty Cobb's kids in a 11-inning battle, 3 to 2.

Outfielder Walker's double gave the Phils a 5 to 4 victory over the Braves.

The Cubs scored four runs in the ninth, but their rally was too late to beat Pittsburgh, the Pirates winning, 8 to 6.

Gorham Leverette of Fort Smith, Arkansas, a White Sox rookie, shut out the Indians, 3 to 0.

ARLINGTON WILL MEET TAIL LIGHTS

Valentine Will be Back Again Sunday to do Mound Duty For Rushville Team

A GOOD GAME IS EXPECTED

The Arlington and Rushville baseball teams will tangle here Sunday afternoon, and a fast game is expected. Arlington always has had a good team in the field, and it is understood here that they have a new pitcher signed for the mound duty.

Valentine, who was here last Sunday and pitched in an exhibition contest, will again be here Sunday, and will do the hurling for the Tail Lights. The rest of the team will probably line-up with Byrne behind the plate, Bennett on first, McCarty at second, Shaw at third, Conway at short, Sharp, Pearsey and Smith in the outfield.

The game Sunday will be called at 2:30, and will be played on the West Third street diamonds.

Men Blind To Woman's Suffering

How many men, think you, have any idea of the pain endured by women in their own household, and often without a murmur? They have no patience when the overworked wife and mother begins to get pale, have headaches, backaches, faint spells, or is melancholy and cannot sleep. There is help for every woman in this condition, as evidenced by the many voluntary letters of recommendation which we are continually publishing in this paper for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It will pay any woman who suffers from such ailments to give it a trial.—Advertisements.

GOMPERS AGAIN HEADS THE A.F. L.

Effort of Coalition of Railroad Workers, Miners And Others To Oust Him Is Failure

PRESIDENT FOR 41ST TIME

Has Held The Office During Entire Life Of The Federation With Exception Of One Year.

By LAWRENCE C. MARTIN

Ohio National Guard Army, Cincinnati, Ohio, June 23 — Samuel Gompers was today reelected president of the American Federation of Labor without opposition.

The effort of a coalition of railroad workers, miners and others to force Gompers out collapsed early today and no other candidate for president was nominated.

Gompers' election was the 41st time he has been chosen to head the federation, having held the office during the entire life of the federation, with the exception of one year.

James Duncan, head of the Granite workers, was re-elected first vice president.

Without opposition, Joseph F. Valentine of the moulder, Frank Duffy of the street carmen, William Green of the miners, W. D. Mahon of the streetcar men, and T. A.

Approximately two hundred guests were royally entertained Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. D. C. Compton in West Third street with a musical program. Mrs. George Helm, Mrs. Chester Cross, Mrs. Aaron Wellman, Mrs. Ray Compton and Mrs. D. C. Compton were the gracious hostesses and were responsible for the success of the party.

Miss Lavinienna Compton, daughter of Mrs. D. C. Compton, who is a talented reader of this city, gave a group of selections which were very amusing and was thoroughly enjoyed by the guests. Lynn Cordes of Indianapolis, a soloist, also appeared on the program with several vocal selections. Mary Estelle Compton, grand daughter of Mrs. Compton, entertained the guests with a few readings.

The home was prettily decorated for the occasion with ferns and bouquets of cut flowers. Following the program a delicious luncheon was served by the hostesses.

FINED FOR INTOXICATION

Ed Junkens, who resides on North Maple street, pleaded guilty late Thursday afternoon to a charge of intoxication before Justice Stech, and was fined $1 and costs, which was paid. Junkens was arrested at noon when he drove down Main street, asleep in a buggy, and it is said that he recovered sufficiently to be arraigned later in the day.

S. S. CONVENTION
STARTS 3RD DAY

Program Of Sixteenth International Sunday School Meet Began With Singing Convention Hymn

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES

Dr. Lansing F. Smith Discusses "The Training Of Leadership For Religious Education"

Kansas City, Mo., June 23 — With the singing of the convention hymn, "Gird Thyself for Each Day's Need," written by Dr. Ralph Welles Keeler, Chicago, the Sixteenth International Sunday School Convention began its third day.

Following the devotional hour Dr. Wade Crawford Barclay, Cincinnati, Associate Editor of Sunday School Publications of the Methodist Episcopal Church, outlined "The Organization of the Local Church for Religious Education," it being the report of the sub-committee on "Organization and Administration Agencies" of the Committee on Education, Dr. Barclay being chairman of the sub-committee.

Dr. Lansing F. Smith, St. Louis, Chairman Executive Board, Missouri Sunday School Association, in discussing "The Training of Leadership for Religious Education through Community Agencies of Training," pointed out that schools of method, community teacher training classes, week-day schools of religious education, daily vacation Bible schools and graded unions for cradle roll, beginners, primary and junior departments have made splendid contributions in training leaders for the local church school.

"The outstanding agency of community training has been the community training school, organized along the lines of the Graded Unions and including all departments of Sunday School work and all denominations. These have proved the most popular and are increasing rapidly in numbers and efficiency. They have been most helpful because of making possible a strong faculty the enthusiasm of numbers, the fellowship of folks from different denominations, the strength which has been given to weak schools and smaller denominations, the development of the spirit of cooperation, the making possible of a real school, recitation, notebook work, and required readings and examination, which is out of the question in a smaller group and the putting up of a real challenge to the religious life of the entire community. Every church has a responsibility to the whole community and it is necessary for the leaders to develop a community consciousness and unite on a big plan in order to meet it."

Dr. John W. Shackford, Nashville, Superintendent of the Department of Teacher Training, General Sunday School Board of Sunday Schools of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, as chairman of the sub-committee on "Leadership Training" presented the plans of his committee as formulated for the new organization.

WOULD GIVE ONLY EYE TO MAKE ENGLAND DRY

Pussy Foot Johnson Made This Assertion in Interview as he Sailed on Cunarder Seythia

THE COUNTRY MUST BE DRY

New York, June 23.—"I'd give my other eye to make England dry. It would be well worth it."

Pussyfoot Johnson, rum's arch enemy, made this assertion in an interview with the United Press as he sailed on the Cunarder Seythia.

When informed London was awaiting his arrival and planned to greet him with stones, over-grown tomatoes and aged eggs, the prohibition battler chortled:

"Say that's great. Let 'em come. I can fight."

"And tell them England will be dry by 1935, if not sooner. She's bound to go dry. She can't help it. Economic pressure will be brought to bear and the nation will have to jump into position in the dry procession."

"It will be necessary for England to go dry in order to continue world trade. Since this country went dry our foreign business has been increased three-fold, while England's has slumped. That proves that England, if she continues wet, will be unable to compete with dry America. She will have to follow suit or disappear from the foreign trade horizon."

AMUSEMENTS
Vaudeville and Pictures

The usual week end program of vaudeville and pictures will be on view at the Princess today and Saturday. One of the headliners for the vaudeville, is Wright's Royal Trio, an act of singing, music and dancing featured by guitar and Hawaiian instruments. The other act, Billy and Vera Golet, consists of music, songs, talking and dancing.

Round four of the "Leather Pushers" will be shown and the feature picture, "Playing With Fire," in which Gladys Walton is starred.

"The Black Bag" — Mystic

Having a pretty girl seek protection from an amoyer in a public cafe; following her to a fashionable beach resort and subsequently being arrested for a theft he thought she had committed, were some of the experiences encountered by Herbert Rawlinson as the hero of "The Black Bag," which comes to the Mystic today.

The picture is filled to the brim with mystery, thrills and romance. Stuart Paton, the director, has packed it so full of excitement, that the most "picture-wise" spectator is kept on the edge of his seat until the final scene.

Rawlinson, as an energetic young business man, goes to New York for a mildly interesting vacation. He is drawn into a combination of circumstances that put him against a band of clever and ruthless criminals. He seeks to aid the girl with whom he has fallen in love, even after he suspects that she has stolen a diamond necklace. He risks his life to recover the jewels from the crooks who have been following the girl and for his trouble is arrested as one of the thieves.

Paton maintains the dramatic suspense of the story to the very last.

Cultivate Self-Denial.

Indianapolis, Ind., June 23.—The time of the year being at hand when roadside foliage of all kinds is at its heaviest, serving to obstruct the view of road intersections, the Hoosier State Auto Association today issued a bulletin addressed to all township and county road officials and to motorists generally calling attention to the hazard to traffic caused by these blind corners and a remedy under the law for removing most of them. The bulletin says:

"Under the live fence law, on page 704 of the acts of 1921 the township and county road officials are empowered to order property owners to trim all live fences, hedges and shrubbery at cross roads or other intersections down to a level of five feet from the crown of the adjacent roadway. If this is not done the officer is required to have the work done and the costs charged against that property owner's tax assessment. This law was adopted mainly through the activities of the Hoosier Automobile Association, and sets up the necessary machinery for its enforcement.

"It is easy to be understood that the condition of the highways all over the state with the foliage so heavy as at present has a tendency to increase the number of automobile accident.

"Cross roads or other intersections are obscured; ditches obscured; bridge approaches are obscured; railroad crossings are obscured—and the driver who takes a chance keeping on at his full road speed, is inviting the early attention of the ambulance or perhaps the coroner.

"In short, death traps are abundant on the highways at present and the only thing that prevents scores of accidents or fatalities each week is a combination of bull luck and a slight modicum of common sense which makes a few motorists slow up at these blind death traps."

"But it is surprising how quick she began to mend when she started taking Tanlac. She is now feeling better than in years and her house work is easy for her. We think Tanlac is the greatest medicine in the world."

WOMEN CAN MAKE THE STREETS SAFE

John C. Long Declares Before General Federation of Women's Clubs Accidents Are Needless

APPEALS TO CLUB WOMEN

Any Woman's Club Can Make a Safety Diagnosis of Its Own Town and Cure Accident Evil

Chautauqua, N. Y., June 23.—"If every club woman in the United States would confer on herself the degree of 'Doctor of Safety,' traffic accidents would soon be virtually done away with," said John C. Long of the National Chamber of Commerce, speaking before the General Federation of Women's Clubs here today.

"Most accidents on our highways are needless," said the speaker. "The conditions which cause them are preventable. Twenty-eight cities lowered their traffic fatality records in 1921. Detroit and St. Louis nearly halved their previous highway mortality figures. Credit for this decrease belongs to local 'Doctors of Safety' who diagnosed the trouble and then applied strong remedies to bring about a convalescence."

"The increase of motor vehicles to the number of ten million in use today has come about so rapidly that we have been staggered by the traffic problem. We have passed stringent laws, cried for punishment of the speeder, and demanded that traffic rule violators be put in jail. This is all well enough, but it is not fundamental.

"Among the causes of traffic accidents are careless driving, children playing in the streets, poor parking accommodations, insufficient playgrounds, bad street lighting, lack of signs, narrow street limits, inadequate police force, unintelligent traffic regulations.

"If the club women of the United States would confer on themselves the degree of 'Doctor of Safety,' accidents would soon be virtually done away with."

"Any woman's club can make a safety diagnosis of its own town, and cure the accident evil. Make a map of the city. Place a white pin at every point where a child accident occurred during the past year, and a blue pin for every adult accident on the highways. There you have a basis for determining accident causes:

"Are there many pins concentrated at certain points? Perhaps better lighting, more signs, and more police are needed there. Are most of the pins in the middle of blocks rather than at intersections. Then a campaign to urge crossing at the crossings is needed. Are the child pins prevalent? Then more attention is needed in school instruction, in home training, in local playgrounds.

"Following this study, which should reveal the worst of the sore spots, should come a study of the police records on accident cases. At what time of day and year did these occur? Special traffic police relief at peak periods might help. What was the apparent immediate cause of the accident? If speeding and carelessness are coming more in evidence, a campaign on public opinion on the part of the mother would be of great assistance in law enforcement.

"This diagnosis of the anatomy and the records is but the beginning of the task, but it is a beginning which has been largely overlooked.

"For the remedies one may turn to Detroit, which has large playgrounds and elaborate safety instruction in the schools; to Cleveland, which has junior patrols to aid the young and the helpless in crossing the street; to Buffalo, to Indianapolis, and to other cities on the Safety Honor Roll of 1921, where the local schools and associations will be able to tell what methods are being used to make their highways more safe.

"Among the other leading cities which recorded fewer traffic fatalities in 1921 than in 1920 are: Akron, Ohio; Atlanta, Ga.; Bayonne, N. J.; Berkeley, Cal.; Bridgeport, Conn.; Cincinnati, Ohio; Dayton, Ohio; Grand Rapids, Mich.; Lansing, Mich.; Milwaukee, Wis.; Minneapolis, Minn.; Newark, N. J.; New Rochelle, N. Y.; Norfolk, Va.; Ogden, Utah; Paterson, N. J.; Peoria, Ill.; Pittsburgh, Pa.; Pittsfield, Mass.; Providence, R. I.; Richmond, Calif.; Trenton, N. J.; Youngstown, Ohio."

EX-KASER DEVOTES TIME TO PLOTTING

Meagre Tidbits of Gossip Say Wilhelm is Figuring How Monarchy Can be Restored in Germany

HAS TURNED FARMER ALSO

He is Virtually Never Alone For His German Guests Are Always Coming to Pay Respects

Doorn, Holland (By Mail to U. P.) — Ex-Kaiser Wilhelm is devoting himself to plotting—and planting.

At least, so runs the story among well-informed inhabitants of this peaceful Dutch village, who must depend for their information upon the meager tidbits of gossip and news that penetrate to the outer world through the high barbed wire fences that surround Haus Doorn.

The natives say that the former German rulers guest list proves conclusively that his time is spent largely in figuring out how a monarchy perhaps not his own, but that of one of his kinsmen, can be restored in the "Vaterland."

The folk who visit him are those known as "Kaiser treu;" that is, true to the old regime. They are the Pan-German militaristic group, the old professors who still preach kaisermomism and panzermania to their classes, and men of the cloth, who are first and last adherents of the Kaiser regime.

With them, the old Kaiser is ever busy.

His other avocation is planting. In fact, he has turned gentleman farmer in the last few months.

His former pastime of sawing wood is still maintained, but he is showing recently a keener interest in horticulture. He has had built back of the Haus Doorn a special building where he experiments in raising flowers and plants. And, the story runs that he is quite adept with his farming and that he has developed one or two new variations in the flower world.

The Kaiser's day is divided thus, as a rule:

His is a comparatively lonesome life. But he is virtually never alone, for his German guests—the old military men, the professors and the preachers—are always coming to pay their respects and to talk over what can be done to bring back the "good old days," as they term the monarchistic times.

The Doornites do not believe that the Kaiser's plotting is going to bear fruit at once. They do not believe that, vain as he may be, he would attempt now to return to Germany, where he is not beloved. But they do see in the stream of generals, admirals and so on, the laying of a plot the purpose of which is to one day restore Hohenzollernism to the Fatherland. On the day before my visit here, Admiral Trotha and a half dozen clergymen had been the Kaisers guests.

STATE TROOPS MOBILIZED FOR MOVEMENT TO MINE WAR ZONE

Death List in Williamson County, Illinois, Massacre May Mount to Forty, Reports Show

25 BODIES ARE RECOVERED

No Signs of Disturbance Seen in Sleepy, Quiet Country Village of Herrin Today

STRIKERS REMAIN AT HOME

Sympathizers Believe Guilty Will Go Unpunished—"Committed Suicide," They Say

(By United Press)

Chicago, June 23—One thousand troops were mobilized here today on orders of Governor Len Small and held in readiness to move into the Williamson county coal mine district in case of further rioting.

Springfield, Ill., June 23—Three machine gun companies and two infantry of the 130th infantry and parts of the 131st and 132nd infantry are included in the one thousand men who were ordered by Governor Len Small to be held in readiness for instant movement into the Williamson county trouble zone.

Herrin, Ill., June 23—Seventeen bodies lying on crude stretchers in an improvised morgue here, were the only evidence left today of the bitter mine battle fought on the outskirts of this peaceful country village.

This sleepy, quiet country town, with pretty bungalows and homes and few signs of being a mining community, was quiet and peaceful.

There were no miners with guns on their hips, or carrying sticks of dynamite.

The day was hot and about seventy-five men sat around the city hall in overalls, peacefully smoking pipes. The morgue, located on a little side street, was locked.

A few curios had faces pressed against the windows looking at the sheet-covered bodies within.

At mine union headquarters, the door was locked. An old gray headed guard said all of the boys were out "picking berries."

W. E. Speed, state senator and chief union official in this district, had gone to Springfield to consult with state authorities.

Hugh Willis, a member of the ex-

TWO MINERS KILLED AT CLARKSBURG, W. VA.

Rioting Breaks Out When Strikers Attack Street Cars Carrying Mine Deputies

DEAD MEN ARE FOREIGNERS

(By United Press) Clarksburg, W. Va., June 23.—Rioting broke out in the coal strike here today when two mines were killed in a battle between two hundred strikers and a crowd of deputies and employees of the Hudson Coal Company.

Strikers attacked a street car carrying the deputies and employees to the Lewis mine near Reynoldsburg.

Stones and pieces of iron were hurled at the car and were met by two shots by the deputies and Jim Marabito and Marelline Stalluto, strikers, fell dead.

Twenty-two arrests were made, including three women.

Between four and five hundred striking miners live in the Clarksburg district.

The mine was said to have opened Monday when strikebreakers were imported and work started on half time schedule.

active board, was the next ranking official left in Herrin. He told the union side of the story.

"Last week I went out to the mine of the Southern Illinois Coal Company and called on Superintendent J. B. McDowell to ask him to cease operating with strikebreakers. McDowell told me to 'get to hell off of this property.'

Willis then related how telegrams were sent to John L. Lewis and Frank Farrington, international union chiefs, asking them the status of the men employed in the mine and the reply that they were "common strike breakers."

Marion, Ill., June 23—Streets of southern Illinois mining towns were quiet today. The massacre of at least twenty-one strike breaking miners was a closed subject.

A few small groups which formed on the streets of Marion, Herrin and other mining communities from which the mob of 2,000 was recruited, talked in hushed tones and usually in foreign tongues.

The strike sympathizers believe that the guilty will not be punished.

"They committed suicide," or "they attempted to escape and were shot," were the two explanations of the killings most given when anyone was found who would talk.

For the most part, however, the striking miners remained in their homes.

Even the local papers failed to give the killings much display.

The total number of bodies recovered was brought up to 25 today. Seventeen were in the morgue at Herrin while the others were taken to their homes.

Official investigation into the massacre of from twenty-one to forty strikebreakers here, was delayed today.

As far as could be learned, no agency had yet made a move to punish those guilty of the attacks and murders.

Officials took the attitude that it would be impossible to obtain identification of any of the mob leaders, due to the evasiveness of the attackers and impossibility of obtaining competent witnesses.

Date for the inquest had not been set and it probably will be postponed until next week.

Feeling was still running high here today and mine operators were ordered by officials not to make any further attempt to operate with non-union labor.

Feeling against C. A. McDowell, superintendent of the mine who was the first slain, was still so bitter in Herrin that his body was moved to a morgue in a neighboring city in secrecy. Officials feared that the

FALLS OVER IRON RAILING

William Beher is Painfully Hurt in Front of Princess Theater

William Beher, son of Dr. and Mrs. Carl Beher, met with a painful accident Thursday night in front of the Princess theater, when he caught his foot on the iron railing which surrounds the grass near the theater, and fell.

He fell with such force that it dazed him, and he was struck above the forehead, sustained a badly sprained leg, and ligaments were strained in his right arm, but no bones were broken. He was able to be out today, but his injuries are painful.

ORA CLINE MUST SERVE SENTENCE

Appellate Court Affirms Decision Here Carrying With it Sentence Of 120 Days

ALSO FINED $50 BY JURY

Ruling Finally Received in Case Pending 2 Years—Prosecuting Witness Dead

The Appellate court of Indiana this afternoon affirmed the decision rendered by a jury in the Rush circuit court on March 24, 1920, in the case of the State against Ora Cline, a farmer living southwest of Rushville, who was charged with encouraging delinquency. The jury on that date imposed a fine of $50 and a sentence of 120 days at the state penal farm.

For over two years the case has been pending before the higher court, as appealed by the defendant in one of the largest briefs ever sent from this court, requiring several hundred sheets.

The defendant was arrested, according to the court docket, on Feb. 2, 1920, but the case was not tried until in March. Judge Fremont Miller, regular judge of the Johnson county court of Franklin, Ind., was the special judge in the case, and after the jury had found Cline guilty, he filed a motion for a new trial which was overruled. The case was appealed on May 6, 1920.

The defendant was charged with encouraging delinquency on Gladys Smith, a 17 year old girl of his neighborhood, who started the city with evidence concerning her conduct at a former trial, when she prosecuted her father for illicit relations. The girl, it is understood, died a few months ago from tuberculosis, at the home of her mother in Chicago.

The two cases when tried here in the spring of 1920, were unusual, as the testimony relating to the facts in the cases were practically all of an unprintable nature. The jury in the case when the girl was the prosecuting witness against her father, failed to reach an agreement and the case was dropped.

Then after this case, the state pushed the charge against Cline, who had been indicted, and the jury decided that he was guilty of having caused the girl to become a delinquent.

The clerk of the circuit court had not received any communication this afternoon of the decision of the higher court, but the message was received by the Republican to that effect. Since the decision has been affirmed, it will mean that the defendant will be compelled to serve the sentence imposed over two years ago.

LOCAL CHAPTER IS REORGANIZED

Sons of American Revolution Revived at Dinner Given by Earl H. Payne, Thursday Night

STATE PRESIDENT ATTENDS

Cornelius F. Posson of Brazil Outlines Purposes and Activities of the Society

The Gen. P. A. Hackleman chapter of the Sons of the American Revolution, of this city, was revived and reorganized at a dinner tendered the members Thursday evening by Earl H. Payne at his home, corner of Main and Seventh streets, in honor of Cornelius F. Posson of Brazil, state president of the Sons of the American Revolution, who paid the Rushville chapter an official visit.

The old officers of the chapter were re-elected by unanimous vote and steps were taken to conduct a membership campaign as there are known to be a number of other men in Rush county eligible to membership.

Mr. Posson in a short address following the dinner, outlined the activities of the state organization and recited some of the accomplishments of the individual chapters in the state.

He pointed out that the society offers the most practical way of honoring a man's patriotic forefathers and preserves for future generations the family pedigree of members back to the revolution, and that it also continues public interest in the men and events of the American Revolution. It also teaches to the youths of the families of members, he continued, important lessons of patriotism and good citizenship.

Mr. Posson told how through investigation of the society, the unmarked grave of William Tufts, who participated in the Boston tea party and fought at Valley Forge, had been discovered in a bramble-grown graveyard, near Elkhart, and said that it would soon be suitably marked by his descendants as well as by the state society.

Mr. Posson also cited examples where chapters had been effective in causing the Declaration of Independence to be read at Fourth of July celebrations and had otherwise exerted their influence to revive interest in historic events in connection with the founding of this nation. Short talks were made by Dr. F. G. Hackleman, president of the local chapter; A. L. Gary, secretary; Louis Mauzy, former secretary of the state society; Mr. Payne, former state president; Hugh Mauzy, registrar of the local chapter; Austin Frazee and John A. Titsworth.

W. E. Wagoner to Address Meeting Twice and Take Part in Pageant Held This Week.

SESSIONS AT TERRE HAUTE

W. E. Wagoner, county school superintendent is in Terre Haute, taking an active part in the Rural School conference held there. A pageant, "The Patriot of Mt. Vernon," given by a cast picked from teachers and school heads all over the state, was presented Thursday night and will be repeated tonight. Prof. Wagoner takes part in the pageant and has the role of Stephen Hopkins.

The two meetings are held jointly because practically all of the school superintendents are attending the rural conference. The Rushville man is also on the program before the superintendents for two talks, one on "How a Sane Use of Standard Tests Would Improve Our Public School System," and "Latin and Greek in the High Schools."

Prof. Wagoner also was elected to the resolutions committee and the nominating committee, which will re-

SUMMER COMES IN, HEAT CONTINUES

High Temperatures and Fair Weather Predicted With Soil Badly in Need of Rain

FAVORABLE TO WHEAT CUTTING

Summer, which was officially ushered in Thursday is in keeping with the keynote for hot weather, although the nights are more like autumn weather. The mercury Thursday and today mounted up to between 89 and 95 degrees around noon, and during the night the temperature has fallen to around 55 and 60 degrees.

The continued warm and dry weather is most favorable to wheat cutting, and especially has the coolness of the early mornings been appreciated by the farmers who have taken advantage of them, and reached their fields soon after sunrise.

The corn is badly in need of a rain in almost every section of the country, and most of the garden products also are in need of a good, gentle downpour.

The weather man, however, who has been a good guesser this week, does not see any sign of rain in sight, and predicts that on Saturday fair weather will prevail, and that the mercury will go up a few notches.

Predictions that the government's existence would be jeopardized by the death of Wilson, owing to a resolution of feeling against the present Irish policy, proved apparently unfounded when Commons by 107 to 45, defeated a motion to adjourn.

Chamberlain and Edward Shortt, home secretary, were subjected to a fire of criticism and questioning. The former declared that owing to the improved Irish situation, special police guards guiding prominent personages here were withdrawn a month ago. He added these guards had been resumed today.

Other Prominent British Officials Marked For Death by Murder Ring, Disclosures Show

London, June 23.—Investigation to determine if James O'Brien one of the assassins of Field Marshal Sir Henry Wilson, is an American, started here today.

The police received information, unverified, that O'Brien is a United States citizen.

A great round-up of Sinn Fein suspects in London continued this evening. Seventeen captured last night, who were to have been released, were held at the last minute and others are sought.

TRIAL WILL RUN INTO THIRD DAY

CATTLE FEEDERS MEET AT PURDUE

Experiment Station Finds That The Full Feed of Corn Is the Best Producer For Gain in Weight

DISCUSS FEEDING RESULTS

Herd of Two Year Old Steers Were Put on Test in January and Results of Gain Tabulated

If you are going to feed two year old steers for market and feed them corn give them a full feed of it throughout the entire feeding period or a full feed during the last half of the period," said F. G. King of the Agricultural Experiment Station at Purdue University at the recent meeting of the Indiana Cattle Feeders' Association at the University. He was discussing the results of the annual steer feeding experiments at Purdue during the past winter and spring.

"If you want to save corn in your feeding operations keep it away from the cattle entirely until the last half of the feeding period," was the advice from Prof. King, based on seven years of experimental results. "Don't feed them only half as much corn as they ought to have."

Seventy head of two year old steers which weighed approximately 950 pounds each when they were put in the feed lots in January were divided in seven different lots and fed different rations to test out the value of different amounts of corn when fed with silage, clover, hay and cotton seed meal.

The lot receiving the standard Purdue ration, full feed of corn, cotton seed meal, never hay and silage throughout the 140 day feeding period showed the best rate of gain and were valued the highest but did not return the greatest profit. The profit on this lot was $7.10 per steer and $12.67 including pork put on by hogs following the cattle. The lot receiving the same ration except the cotton seed was omitted showed a profit of $9.80 per head and $15.42 including pork.

"It is only profitable to feed cotton seed when 100 bushels of corn can be exchanged for a ton or more of it, indicating that it was not profitable the past year," said Mr. King.

The cattle receiving corn the last half of the feeding period showed a better profit than those receiving a full feed the whole time because of the cheaper cost of gains. The profit per steer in this lot was $9.13 and $13.71 including pork. The lot of steers receiving no corn at all showed a profit of $5.84 per head and the hogs that followed them lacked $14 of paying for the extra feed which they ate. Those on half feed of corn during the entire period showed a profit of $5.87 per steer and $9.93 including pork.

These figures show that the full feed of corn or corn the last half of the feeding period are more profitable than feeding a half feed of corn or no corn at all; also that it is not profitable to feed the cotton seed meal unless 100 bushels of corn can be exchanged for a ton or more of it.

Two lots of light cattle being compared with the heavier ones are not yet finished and will be fed another 60 days before a report will be made on them.

SERUM WILL PROTECT SWINE

Erroneous Impression Prevails That Hog Cholera Will Be Eradicated in Few Years.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The impression that hog cholera is a disease that will be eliminated before many years through the use of anti-hog-cholera serum has been spread throughout the country, but there is little ground for such a belief, says the United States Department of Agriculture.

The serum treatment, when properly given, will protect hogs against the disease, but it does not go to the source and eliminate the germs from the country, which would be necessary if hog cholera is to become a thing of the past. It might be possible to eliminate the disease if every hog in the United States could be kept immunized all of the time, but such a measure would be impractical, if not impossible.

Hog cholera is of varying prevalence, both as to the time of the year and as to periods of several years. In the fall—October and November—there is more of this disease than in the other months. The number of hogs per thousand affected by it changes greatly from year to year also. There have been years, such as 1887, 1897 and 1913, when cholera ranged throughout the corn belt, causing great losses to farmers. In the years intervening between these high points the losses were relatively low.

Since 1913 hog cholera has been but slightly prevalent as compared with the worst years, but there is no assurance that other great waves of the disease will not occur as they did before serum was used. It has been but eight years since the last high point in losses from cholera, and the records of the Department of Agriculture show that the period between the high points of prevalence is usually 10 years or longer.

This fall there are reports of increased losses from cholera, but some increase is to be expected every fall. Mr. Posson said that young men who had attained the age of eighteen years were now eligible to membership, but that they had no voting power in the state society until they had become of age. This rule was made to interest youths in historic events, he said.

Any man shall be eligible to membership in the society who, meeting the age qualifications and being a citizen of good repute in the community, is the lineal descendant of an ancestor who was at all times unfailing in his loyalty to, and rendering active service in cause of American independence, either as an officer, soldier, seaman, marine, militiaman or minuteman, in the armed force of the Continental congress, or of any one of the several colonies or states, as a signer of the Declaration of Independence, as a member of the committee of safety or correspondence, or as a member of any Continental, Provincial or Colonial congress or legislature, or as a recognized patriot who performed actual service by overt acts of resistance to the authority of Great Britain.

The Gen. P. A. Hackleman chapter was organized by Mr. Payne in Rushville on February 12, 1918, but the organization was not active because of the war and was never revived at the conclusion of the conflict.

ALL DAY MEETING

The Missionary Society, of the Second Baptist church held an all day meeting at the home of Mrs. Henry Miller, east of the city, Thursday afternoon. The business session was held and two new members were taken in. Mrs. Bettie Smith had charge of the devotions and Mrs. Rita Sheppard sang "In The Garden." The next meeting will be held July 13 with Mrs. Millard Boatright, Mrs. Sheppard, Mrs. George Mitchell and Mrs. L. Krider of Indianapolis were guests.

LOCAL CHAPTER IS REORGANIZED

Farmer Should Immunize Every Hog on First Suspicion of Cholera.

The fact that farm products have brought smaller returns in recent months has no doubt caused less serum to be bought, and many farmers have lost their herds when they might have saved them. Perhaps they could not have prevented the occurrence of the disease, but they could have prevented the hogs from dying of it.

Getting rid of hog cholera is not a simple matter, which may be appreciated when it is remembered that the infection has been carried to all parts of the United States and that the ways in which it spreads are probably not all thoroughly known. It may be many a long year before this plague of the swine industry is eliminated. The best thing to be done now is for each farmer to keep close watch over his herd, and on the first suspicion of the disease immunize every hog.

Some men now consider immunization against hog cholera as one of the regular expenses of pork production and have it done every year. They realize that it is not a cure, but only a prevention against loss. Even when serum is used there is sometimes a loss, but in nearly all cases the method is very successful. It is the only dependable means available for preventing losses from hog cholera.

BLOODHOUNDS HIT TRAIL AT AUBURN

Attempt Made To Clear Mysterious Murder Of James W. Sheffer And Shooting Of His Wife

HOUSE ONCE DYNAMITED

(UPI Special Press)

Auburn, Ind., June 23.—Bloodhounds struck a trail here today to clear the mysterious murder of James W. Sheffer, prominent resident of Auburn, and the probable fatal shooting of his wife.

Three shots were fired into Sheffer's body and he fell dead. Two bullets entered Mrs. Sheffer's body and she is in a critical condition. They were entering their garage late last night returning home from a band concert.

"There were shots and shots and shots," said Mrs. Sheffer. "I thought they never would get through shooting. The shots seemed to be coming up from below."

A son and a daughter, the only children of Mr. and Mrs. Sheffer, were killed in January 1921, when their home was dynamited and destroyed. The parents were injured at that time, too. Following the explosion, Nie Sheffer, a brother, was arrested, but was released later.

The local chapter is reorganized.

PERSHING MEMORIAL HOSPITAL IS READY

Building Erected in Memory of Gen. Pershing's Wife and Children Who Burned to Death

WAS A WYOMING BELLE

Cheyenne, Wyo., June 22—Wyoming's most beautiful hospital is nearing completion, the Frances Warren Memorial hospital, a monument to the wife of General John J. Pershing and their three children who lost their lives in a fire at the Presidio, San Francisco, August 27, 1915.

Although the $400,000 structure is already practically completed, improvements, costing approximately $350,000 are to be added.

The hospital was made possible through a tax levy and through the gifts of wealthy Wyoming residents. Senator Frances E. Warren of Wyoming was among those to contribute toward a fund for a memorial for his daughter.

The main building contains 68 private rooms; 6 four-bed wards; 2 five-bed wards and 2 six-bed children's wards with sun porches. The hospital is modern in every respect and with the addition of future improvements, will be one of the finest in the West.

Frances Warren Pershing was one of Wyoming's leading belles and as the wife of General Pershing, who was near here, was the leader in Cheyenne's social activities. Her marriage to the then Captain Pershing in Washington was one of the most brilliant events of President Roosevelt's administration.

After the tragic death of Mrs. Pershing and her three small children, the bodies were brought here and buried in the Warren lot.

VOTERS REGISTRATION LAW CONSTITUTIONAL

Indiana Supreme Court Affirms Decision of Wells-Blackford Circuit in Simmons Case

SUIT TO TEST THE STATUTE

Indianapolis, Ind., June 23.—The supreme court of Indiana today upheld the state voters registration law. It affirmed the decision of the Wells-Blackford circuit in the case of Abraham Simmons, an attorney, testing the law against John Byrd.

The supreme court held that the legislature has power to determine what requirements shall be complied with by qualified voters so long as the requirements are not grossly unlimited and that the compliance therewith is not impossible.

Since the legislature has power to provide by law for the registration of all voters, it has power to exclude from the privilege of voting those persons who refuse or neglect to register a lawful number of days before the election, the court ruled.

State Troops Mobilized For Movement to Mine War Zone

strike sympathizers might make an effort to obtain his body and precipitate a new outbreak.

It was believed that all except three or four of the fifty-one strikebreakers who fell into hands of the mob when they stormed the stockade, were either killed or injured.

No members of the attackers were found who would tell their story of the events of the massacre. The word was passed around that the strikebreakers and guard were killed while marching to Herrin when they made an attempt to escape.

This was denied by the survivors of the strike breakers.

Colonel Samuel N. Hunter who is representing the national guard on the ground, said today as far as he knew no investigation into the killings were under way and that no arrests had been made.

Colonel Hunter pointed out that the military authorities could do nothing to punish the men who are guilty unless the district was under martial law.

The following telegram was today received by Sheriff Thaxton, from Governor Small at Waukegan:

"Insist on an immediate reply to my telegram in relation to the riots and disorders, giving detailed and accurate information of what steps have been and are now being taken by you for the apprehension of the parties who committed these crimes and to prevent further difficulties or violations of the law."

The casualties in "bloody" Williamson's mine war massacre will reach forty, according to reports of military authorities today.

Twenty-one men, imported from Chicago labor agencies under the impression that they were to work in union strip mines, are known to have met horrible deaths as strikebreakers. Their bodies are in morgues in Herrin and Marion.

The massacre of workers in the southern Illinois Coal Company's mine war eight miles northwest of here, climaxed a bitter fight of forty years between union and non-union forces in Williamson county.

Rioting quieted down after the 2,000 striking miners and sympathizers, driven to wild frenzy through mob action, shot down the imported strikebreakers and guards as they "made a run for it" across a field near Herrin. Sixteen injured from buckshot, rifle and revolver bullets, wounds and from beatings and bruises, were under care here and in Herrin. Some bodies were horribly mutilated.

Colonel Samuel N. Hunter of the National Guard staff, after a thorough survey of conditions in the county, stated he did not believe troops would be needed now unless some further attempt to operate mines was made. All mines in this vicinity were shut down today.

The slaughter came at the end of a twenty-four hour battle for the fortified mine.

Guards, who had successfully held off the mob, raised a white flag shortly before noon Thursday. Water pipes had been cut, and food supply destroyed when a carload of supplies was blown up.

The men inside of the stockade made an unconditional surrender, with little thought of what was in store for them.

After having given up their arms, the strikebreakers and guards were tied together with ropes in squads of six and a march toward Herrin began.

Few could be found who would tell the details of the bloody slaying.

Most of the strikebreakers and guards were dead, too injured to talk or were missing and had escaped.

Mouths of the men who were in the mob were closed through fear of prosecution or because they were sickened by the awful spectacle.

Fred Bernard, one of the workers in the mine, who escaped injury from the hands of the mob through the pass word of a fraternal order, described events. He was unconscious for some time from the beating which he received, however, and could not tell all of the facts.

Bernard said he was hired by a Chicago labor agency to work as cook for a steam shovelers' union gang.

"I was engaged by the Bertrand employment agency of Chicago," Bernard said. "I think most of the men who were working in the mine were hired by the same company."

"I reported for work on Tuesday. I now understand that we were warned to quit the mine by union leaders, but none of the warnings ever reached the men. I do not know whether the bosses received these warnings or not."

"Many of the other men had come to work under the same representations which were made to me."

"The first crowd of miners started to march on the works late Wednesday afternoon.

"The guards—I think there were about thirty—were heavily armed and equipped with a machine gun. They wanted the kitchen crew to take up arms but were refused. We hid in gondolas on the tracks inside the barricade of shack.

"Bullets struck all around us during the afternoon and night."

"We crouched down. I don't think any one inside the barricade was hurt in Wednesday's firing, although several miners were reported killed and injured."

"The first heavy attack Thursday morning came at sun rise."

"As the attackers came howling toward the barricade, the guards fought them off."

"After the strikebreakers had been driven back once, they apparently obtained reinforcements and about 10 a. m. another attack started."

"Some one raised white flag and the crowd of men and women came yelling over the barricade."

"We were frisked for arms, then lined up, and tied together in groups of six."

"We didn't know what we were in for."

"Most of the boys didn't realize it I guess, until they were shot, but when I took a look at the red, bloodshot eyes of some of our captors, I felt the end was near. Many of the attackers were reeling drunk."

"They forced us to start marching toward Herrin. As we walked, they struck us with their fists, and then started to hammer us with revolvers."

"McDowell, the superintendent of the mine, headed the line. He walked with a slight limp and they apparently took delight in torturing him."

"After we marched several miles, we were called up in groups and ordered to 'make a run for it' into a field."

"McDowell's group was the first one to be called out and I believe McDowell was the first man killed."

"As the men ran into the field, rifles and revolvers cracked from all parts of the mob."

"I was in the second group called

PREMIUM LIST FOR SHOW ISSUED

International Grain and Hay Show to be Held in Connection With Livestock Exposition at Chicago

OFFER $10,000 IN PREMIUMS

The premium list has been issued for the International Grain and Hay Show to be held at Chicago Dec. 2 to 9, in connection with the International Livestock Exposition. It is being mailed to Indiana corn and small grain growers who have exhibited in this show in other years and to members of the Indiana Corn Growers' Association.

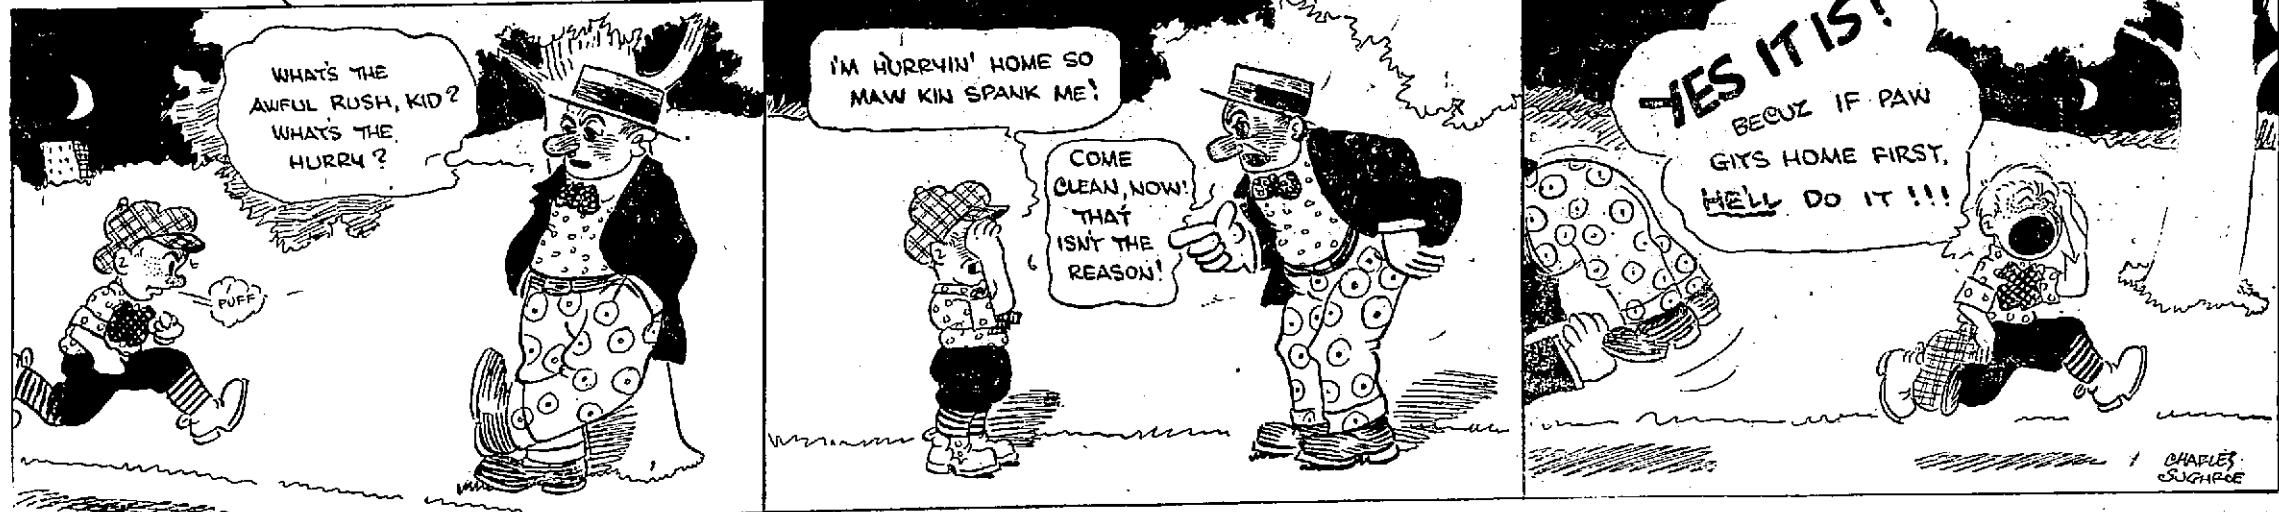

The Chicago Board of Trade again has offered $10,000 in premium which will be divided between the grain and hay entries with a larger portion of the prizes going to corn producers. Wheat, oats, rye, barley, corn, milo maize, small seeds including alfalfa, red clover, alsike, sweet clover, and timothy, soybeans, cowpeas and field peas, will receive their just share of the prize money.

Educational exhibits from the U. S. Department of Agriculture, state agricultural colleges and experiment stations, farm bureaus, crop improvement and seed growers' organizations will form a valuable part of the show.

"The International Grain and Hay Show is not a money-making institution. It is conducted solely in the interests of agriculture and country life and is not for the profit of any individual organizations or corporations," says a preliminary statement from the superintendent, Director G. I. Christie, of Purdue University. "All the plans and arrangements are made with the active co-operation of representatives of state institutions and state associations."

W. Q. Fitch, of Purdue, assistant county agent leader is assistant superintendent of the show and again will be in personal charge of it.

BEGIN THE DAY RIGHT:
Cause me to hear Thy loving kindness in the morning; for in Thee do I trust; cause me to know Thy way wherein I should walk; for I lift up my soul unto Thee.—Psalm 143: 8.

City Park Protection

Extra effort has been made during the week to improve the city park and make it an inviting place for the people of Rushville to enjoy. The city park board has had the co-operation of school boys who are taking a summer recreation course under A. F. Cotton. The grass has been mowed and the debris gathered up and burned. The playground equipment has been repaired and added to so that children may derive some benefit from it.

Reports today were to the effect that a crowd of rowdies was in the park Thursday night and took possession of the playground apparatus while children stood about and watched them. Most of them were young men who had reached an age where this form of amusement should no longer attract them.

The point is that the playground equipment is for children and people of this character should not be allowed to destroy it. The city park was once well equipped as a recreation center for children, but grown rowdies were allowed to take possession of the place, with the result that much of it was destroyed.

The work of preparing the park as a place of recreation for the little folks will have been in vain if they are not given some protection by the city. It appears that a policeman at the city park in the evening would be the best means of maintaining order and making it possible for the youngsters to get the most enjoyment out of the park.

Traction Lines And Highways

(The Red Line, published by the Indianapolis & Cincinnati Traction Co.)

The following article, reprinted from the Elkhart Truth, has been printed in other newspapers throughout the state. We do not vouch for the accuracy of the statements it makes, for we have no way of knowing the source of the information on which the statements are based. So much has been said, however, on the subject, that it is only fair to set forth the truth. The Elkhart paper says:

"Electric railways, which form a network throughout Indianapolis, are feeling automobile competition in both freight and passenger service resulting in their complaint to the state tax board that their money paid out in taxes goes for the building of roads that encourages their competition."

"Apparently, the railways have made a case before the state tax board, which now is holding hearings preparatory to the making of the tax appraisements on various corporations assessed by it. Indications favor a reduction of the appraisements, which amounted to $64,825,000 last year for the 36 companies operating in the state. The companies have 2,275 miles of track.

"The appraisements that will be made by the board are yet a matter of conjecture, but in explaining the revenues of the electric railways, the board has been told that the interurban lines generally have been hit hard by automobile competition. Throughout the state the board has been informed that hard surface roads have been built by public funds raised from taxation, and that these generally parallel the electric railroads.

"With the road improvements, according to the railroad men, comes the automobile, usually the truck first seeking the freight business and then the auto-bus, seeking the passenger service. The hard surface road, from the viewpoint of the railroad men makes competition easy for the automobile and the complaint to the tax board by the railway men is that they pay more in taxes for building the roads than do their competitors."

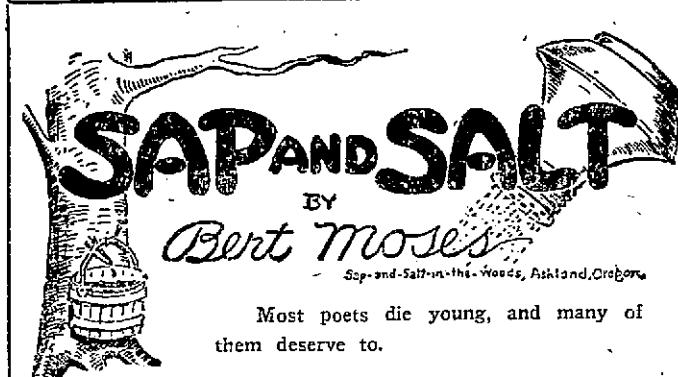

Disclaiming again any responsibility for the truth of the foregoing article, the Red Line wishes to make this statement: No business man should be expected to contribute to the support of his competitor. Yet the Red Line is in exactly that position. Busses and trucks pay practically no taxes in support of the good roads that make their operation possible. Taxpayers generally provide facilities for the buses and trucks, and maintain these facilities.

The Red Line is a heavy taxpayer and therefore is in the position of helping to maintain its competitor.

Last year the Red Line paid in taxes in Rush County, $9,548.61; Fayette County, $7,138.32; Hancock, $2,126.73; Decatur, $2,072.83; Shelby, $7,188.32, and Marion County, $6,123.46.

Of each hundred dollars in taxes last year, the cause of good roads took from Fayette County, $13.59; from Rush County, 30.06; Shelby, $26.09; Decatur, $37.11; Hancock, $28.09; and Marion, $7.08. The Red Line paid a total of $29,883.06 in taxes and following the county allotments for roads, $7,095, in round numbers, went from the Red Line to the highways. That was the traction company's contribution to the support of buses and trucks, which are not regulated and which contribute nothing to the upkeep of the roads they use.

We have no wish to be put in the position of complaining, but since the foregoing newspaper article has been published throughout the state, it is only fair that the facts should be set forth. Taxpayers do not seem to wit: "Organized labor is always right."

to care very much if they are called upon to provide facilities for commercial vehicles, but they would probably let out a terrific howl if they were called upon to build and maintain rights of way and trackage for the interurban lines and steam railroads, and then turn such facilities over to the companies for private operation without regulation.

OPENS BIDS ON STATE ROADS

Highway Commission Receives Proposals For 84 Miles

(By United Press)
Indianapolis, Ind., June 23.—The state highway commission today opened bids on 84 miles of state roads. This is a part of the state's $1,500,000 secondary road program. Thirty road projects in nineteen counties are to be let in nine contracts.

Proposals, according to John Williams, director of the commission, are invited on three types of construction; surface treatment, bituminous top, and penetration top.

These projects comprise 28 road sections that are located in twenty different counties. The counties in which they are located are: Floyd, Clark, Harrison, Dearborn, Jefferson, Lawrence, Monroe, Wayne, Delaware, Grant, Marion, Montgomery, Allen, Elkhart, Laporte, Lake Carroll, Cass and Marshall.

WALTER HAGEN TAKES THE LEAD

Detroit Man Finishes His Rounds in British Open Championship Golf Tourney

LOOKS LIKE A WINNER

Turns in Score of 300 For 72 Holes—Replaces Jock Hutchinson Who Lead This Morning

(By United Press)

Sandwich, England, June 23.—Walter Hagen of Detroit, finished his rounds in the British open championship today with a score of 300 for the 72 holes. The American who led the field in the opening day's play, looked a certain winner after following this up with more brilliant golf this afternoon.

Hagen's score today was 79-72-151. Yesterday he had 149 and led the field by two strokes.

Wind and rain which interfered with the play this morning, moderated before Hutchinson who led at the end of the third round, started his final round this afternoon, and Jock, last year's champion, had a chance to beat Hagen if he turned in a 73.

Hutchison went out in 36, despite a seven at the fourth. Jock Hutchinson, America, took the lead today at the end of morning round play.

Despite strong winds from the southwest which swept the Royal St. George course, Hutchinson, who was tied for third place yesterday, turned in a brilliant 73 and moved into first place. Jock, last year's champion, replaced Walter Hagen of Detroit, who led the field at the end of the first day's play. Hagen took 79 this morning and dropped back, but forged ahead again this afternoon.

In going into the lead this morning Hutchinson went out in 34 and achieved 14 straight fours during his round. Hagen was out in 36, sinking a 12 yard putt at the ninth.

Americans in the gallery hoped to find a winner among the "big three"—Barnes, Hagen and Hutchinson. Britain looked to Taylor or Duncan to win back the open crown. Barnes went out in 38. His score going out this morning was:

Out 553 633 434-38.

The American champion got into hunker approaching the first green. He missed the two at the third by six inches. Barnes' putting was not up to his usual standard and he missed a six footer at the fourth and a three footer at the fifth.

A heavy rain started falling at 1 o'clock.

J. H. Taylor and Jean Gassiat moved up to second place after their morning round which brought both the veteran British pro and the Frenchman to 227, one stroke behind Hutchinson. Pallis was 231.

Approximately two hundred guests were royally entertained Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. D. C. Compton in West Third street with a musical program. Mrs. George Helm, Mrs. Chester Cross, Mrs. Aaron Wellman, Mrs. Ray Compton and Mrs. D. C. Compton were the gracious hostesses and were responsible for the success of the party.

Miss Laviencia Compton, daughter of Mrs. D. C. Compton, who is a talented reader of this city, gave a group of selections which were very amusing and was thoroughly enjoyed by the guests. Lynn Cordes of Indianapolis, a soloist, also appeared on the program with several vocal selections. Mary Estelle Compton, grand daughter of Mrs. Compton, entertained the guests with a few readings.

The home was prettily decorated for the occasion with ferns and bouquets of cut flowers. Following the program a delicious luncheon was served by the hostesses.

REFUSES INDEPENDENCE

President Would Not Approve Philippines Plea

Washington, June 23.—President Harding Thursday refused to approve "absolute, immediate and complete independence" to the Philippines, as recently requested by a delegation from the islands.

The president's refusal of the plea for independence was made known to the delegation in a conference at the White House this morning.

Harding, it was said, expressed a hope that independence should be granted the islands ultimately but he made it clear that he does not yet consider the time ripe for such action.

NIGHT AGENT TRANSFERRED

Eugene Lavelle Sent to Shelbyville I.C. Freight Man

With the recent changes made in the offices here of the Indianapolis and Cincinnati traction company, two additional advancements have been made. Harry Meyers, who has been chief clerk of the bookkeeping department in the offices here for several years, will be retained in that capacity, and will also take over some of the business pertaining to the auditor's office, and he will be an assistant to C. A. Dugle, the new auditor.

Eugene Lavelle, the night passenger agent at the station, has been transferred to the general freight agency at the Shelbyville depot, and a successor for his position here has not been named. The various changes were made at once.

The following program of sacred music will be presented on Sunday evening at 7:30 p.m. at St. Paul's M. E. church by the choir led by O. P. Waumsley.

S. S. CONVENTION STARTS 3RD DAY

Program Of Sixteenth International Sunday School Meet Began With Singing Convention Hymn

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES

Dr. Lansing F. Smith Discusses "The Training Of Leadership For Religious Education"

Kansas City, Mo., June 23 — With the singing of the convention hymn, "Gird Thyself for Each Day's Need," written by Dr. Ralph Welles Keefer, Chicago, the Sixteenth International Sunday School Convention began its third day.

Following the devotional hour Dr. Wade Crawford Barclay, Cincinnati, Associate Editor of Sunday School Publications of the Methodist Episcopal Church, outlined "The Organization of the Local Church for Religious Education," it being the report of the sub-committee on "Organization and Administration Agencies" of the Committee on Education, Dr. Barclay being chairman of the sub-committee.

Dr. Lansing F. Smith, St. Louis, Chairman Executive Board, Missouri Sunday School Association, in discussing "The Training of Leadership for Religious Education through Community Agencies of Training," pointed out that schools of method, community teacher training classes, week-day schools of religious education, daily vacation Bible schools and graded unions for cradle roll, beginners, primary and junior departments have made splendid contributions in training leaders for the local church school.

The outstanding agency of community training has been the community training school, organized along the lines of the Graded Unions and including all departments of Sunday School work and all denominations. These have proved the most popular and are increasing rapidly in numbers and efficiency. They have been most helpful because of making possible a strong faculty the enthusiasm of numbers, the fellowship of folks from different denominations, the strength which has been given to weak schools and smaller denominations, the development of the spirit of cooperation, the making possible of a real school, recitation, notebook work, and required readings and examination, which is out of the question in a smaller group and the putting up of a real challenge to the religious life of the entire community. Every church has a responsibility to the whole community and it is necessary for the leaders to develop a community consciousness and unite on a big plan in order to meet it."

Dr. John W. Shaeford, Nashville, Superintendent of the Department of Teacher Training, General Sunday School Board of Sunday Schools of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, as chairman of the sub-committee on "Leadership Training" presented the plans of his committee as formulated for the new organization.

WOULD GIVE ONLY EYE TO MAKE ENGLAND DRY

Pussy Foot Johnson Made This Assertion in Interview as he Sailed on Cunarder Seythia

THE COUNTRY MUST BE DRY

New York, June 23.—"I'd give my other eye to make England dry. It would be well worth it."

Pussyfoot Johnson, rum's arch enemy, made this assertion in an interview with the United Press as he sailed on the Cunarder Seythia.

When informed London was awaiting his arrival and planned to greet him with stones, over-grown tomatoes and aged eggs, the prohibition battler chortled:

"Say that's great. Let 'em come. I can fight."

"And tell them England will be dry by 1935, if not sooner. She's bound to go dry. She can't help it. Economic pressure will be brought to bear and the nation will have to jump into position in the dry process."

"It will be necessary for England to go dry in order to continue world trade. Since this country went dry our foreign business has been increased three-fold, while England's has slumped. That proves that England, if she continues wet, will be unable to compete with dry America. She will have to follow suit or disappear from the foreign trade horizon."

AMUSEMENTSVaudeville and Pictures

The usual week end program of vaudeville and pictures will be on view at the Princess today and Saturday. One of the headliners for the vaudeville, is Wright's Royal Trio, an act of singing, music and dancing featured by guitar and Hawaiian instruments. The other act, Billy and Vera Golet, consists of music, songs, talking and dancing.

Round four of the "Leather Pushers" will be shown and the feature picture, "Playing With Fire," in which Gladys Walton is starred.

"The Black Bag" —Mystic

Having a pretty girl seek protection from an annoyer in a public cafe; following her to a fashionable beach resort and subsequently being arrested for a theft he thought she had committed, were some of the experiences encountered by Herbert Rawlinson as the hero of "The Black Bag," which comes to the Mystic today.

The picture is filled to the brim with mystery, thrills and romance. Stuart Paton, the director, has packed it so full of excitement, that the most "picture-wise" spectator is kept on the edge of his seat until the final scene.

Rawlinson, as an energetic young business man, goes to New York for a mildly interesting vacation. He is drawn into a combination of circumstances that put him against a band of clever and ruthless criminals. He seeks to aid the girl with whom he has fallen in love, even after he suspects that she has stolen a diamond necklace. He risks his life to recover the jewels from the crooks who have been following the girl and for his trouble is arrested as one of the thieves.

Paton maintains the dramatic suspense of the story to the very last.

MILLER GIVES FACTS IN WIFE'S CASE TO PUBLIC

Was Astonished at the Way She Began To Mend When She Took Tanlac — Completely Relieved of Stomach Trouble of Ten Years' Standing.

"My wife had suffered ten years from stomach trouble, getting worse rapidly," said W. B. Miller, of Ft. Wayne, Ind., employee of the N. Y. C. Railroad.

"A year or so ago she became violently ill and had to stay in bed for days. She had no appetite and after nearly every meal she would bloat up with gas and have pains all through her body. She was so nervous she couldn't rest at night and her back and limbs hurt all the time."

"But it is surprising how quick she began to mend when she started taking Tanlac. She is now feeling better than in years and her housework is easy for her. We think Tanlac is the greatest medicine in the world."

Tanlac is sold by all good drugists.—Advertisement.

TRAFFIC HAZARDS CAUSING CONCERN

Hoosier State Auto Association Calls Attention to Motorists About.

Roadside Foliage

OBSCURES CROSS ROADS

Many Highways Have Such Death Traps Which Might Cause Collisions

Indianapolis, Ind., June 23.—The time of the year being at hand when roadside foliage of all kinds is at its heaviest, serving to obstruct the view of road intersections, the Hoosier State Auto Association today issued a bulletin addressed to all township and county road officials and to motorists generally calling attention to the hazard to traffic caused by these blind corners and a remedy under the law for removing most of them. The bulletin says:

"Under the live fence law, on page 704 of the acts of 1921 the township and county road officials are empowered to order property owners to trim all live fences, hedges and shrubbery at cross roads or other intersections down to a level of five feet from the crown of the adjacent roadway. If this is not done the officer is required to have the work done and the costs charged against that property owner's tax assessment. This law was adopted mainly through the activities of the Hoosier Automobile Association, and sets up the necessary machinery for its enforcement.

"It is easy to be understood that the condition of the highways all over the state with the foliage so heavy as at present has a tendency to increase the number of automobile accident.

"Cross roads or other intersections are obscured; ditches obscured; bridge approaches are obscured; railroad crossings are obscured—and the driver who takes a chance keeping on at his full road speed, is inviting the early attention of the ambulance or perhaps the coroner.

"In short, death traps are abundant on the highways at present and the only thing that prevents scores of accidents or fatalities each week is a combination of hull luck and a slight modicum of common sense which makes a few motorists slow ing at these blind death traps."

"The majority of motorists continue to sail on through a blind crossing despite all of our warnings and despite, too, in many cases, the fact that danger signs have been erected for their guidance.

WOMEN CAN MAKE THE STREETS SAFE

John C. Long Declares Before General Federation of Women's Clubs
Accidents Are Needless

APPEALS TO CLUB WOMEN

Any Woman's Club Can Make a Safety Diagnosis of Its Own Town and Cure Accident Evil

Chautauqua, N. Y., June 23.—"If every club woman in the United States would confer on herself the degree of 'Doctor of Safety,' traffic accidents would soon be virtually done away with," said John C. Long of the National Chamber of Commerce, speaking before the General Federation of Women's Clubs here today.

"Most accidents on our highways are needless," said the speaker. "The conditions which cause them are preventable. Twenty-eight cities lowered their traffic fatality records in 1921. Detroit and St. Louis nearly halved their previous highway mortality figures. Credit for this decrease belongs to local 'Doctors of Safety' who diagnosed the trouble and then applied strong remedies to bring about a convalescence.

"The increase of motor vehicles to the number of ten million in use today has come about so rapidly that we have been staggered by the traffic problem. We have passed stringent laws, cried for punishment of the speeder, and demanded that traffic rule violators be put in jail. This is all well enough, but it is not fundamental.

"Among the causes of traffic accidents are careless driving, children playing in the streets, poor parking accommodations, insufficient playgrounds, bad street lighting, lack of signs, narrow street limits, inadequate police force, unintelligent traffic regulations.

"If the club women of the United States would confer on themselves the degree of 'Doctor of Safety,' accidents would soon be virtually done away with.

"Any woman's club can make a safety diagnosis of its own town, and cure the accident evil. Make a map of the city. Place a white pin at every point where a child accident occurred during the past year, and a blue pin for every adult accident on the highways. There you have a basis for determining accident causes:

"Are there many pins concentrated at certain points? Perhaps better lighting, more signs, and more police are needed there. Are most of the pins in the middle of blocks rather than at intersections. Then a campaign to urge crossing at the crossings is needed. Are the child pins prevalent? Then more attention is needed in school instruction, in home training, in local playgrounds.

"Following this study, which should reveal the worst of the sore spots, should come a study of the police records on accident cases. At what time of day and year did these occur? Special traffic police relief at peak periods might help. What was the apparent immediate cause of the accident? If speeding and carelessness are coming more in evidence, a campaign on public opinion on the part of the mother would be of great assistance in law enforcement.

"This diagnosis of the anatomy and the records is but the beginning of the task, but it is a beginning which has been largely overlooked.

"For the remedies one may turn to Detroit, which has large playgrounds and elaborate safety instruction in the schools; to Cleveland, which has junior patrols to aid the young and the helpless in crossing the street; to Buffalo, to Indianapolis, and to other cities on the Safety Honor Roll of 1921, where the local schools and associations will be able to tell what methods are being used to make their highways more safe.

"Among the other leading cities which recorded fewer traffic fatalities in 1921 than in 1920 are: Akron, Ohio; Atlanta, Ga.; Bayonne, N. J.; Berkeley, Cal.; Bridgeport, Conn.; Cincinnati, Ohio; Dayton, Ohio; Grand Rapids, Mich.; Lansing, Mich.; Milwaukee, Wis.; Minneapolis, Minn.; Newark, N. J.; New Rochelle, N. Y.; Norfolk, Va.; Ogden, Utah; Paterson, N. J.; Peoria, Ill.; Pittsburgh, Pa.; Pittsfield, Mass.; Providence, R. I.; Richmond, Cal.; Trenton, N. J.; Youngstown, Ohio."

TARIFF HAZARDSCAUSING CONCERN

"The personal equation must first be hammered into the noddles of auto drivers—it is the part of it each one must take home to himself. But causes for these hazards may promptly be removed in hundreds of instances in every county in Indiana if township and county officials will at once get busy and apply the law which has been made to fit just such matters.

"The Hoosier State Auto Association would like to erect warning signs at every hazardous spot on every highway in Indiana and will carry on this work just as rapidly as memberships increase to provide the funds, since we have no capital, and we are not operating for profit but for the welfare of all motorists. The more quickly the bulk of motorists in Indiana recognize the fact that we are the only organization in Hoosierdom working unselfishly for their welfare the more quickly can we accomplish the gigantic tasks that are before us throughout the state."

EX-KASER DEVOTES TIME TO PLOTTING

Meagre Tidbits of Gossip Say Wilhelm is Figuring How Monarchy Can be Restored in Germany

HAS TURNED FARMER ALSO

He is Virtually Never Alone For His German Guests Are Always Coming to Pay Respects

Doorn, Holland (By Mail to U. P.)—Ex-Kaiser Wilhelm is devoting himself to plotting—and planting.

At least, so runs the story among well-informed inhabitants of this peaceful Dutch village, who must depend for their information upon the meager tidbits of gossip and news that penetrate to the outer world through the high barbed wire fences that surround Haus Doorn.

The natives say that the former German rulers guest list proves conclusively that his time is spent largely in figuring out how a monarchy perhaps not his own, but that of one of his kinsmen, can be restored in the "Vaterland."

The folk who visit him are those known as "Kaiser trou;" that is, true to the old regime. They are the Pan-German militaristic group, the old professors who still preach kaisermomism and pangermanism to their classes, and men of the cloth, who are first and last adherents of the Kaiser regime.

With them, the old Kaiser is ever busy.

His other avocation is planting.

In fact, he has turned gentleman farmer in the last few months.

His former pastime of sawing wood is still maintained, but he is showing recently a keener interest in horticulture. He has had built back of the Haus Doorn a special building where he experiments in raising flowers and plants. And the story runs that he is quite adept with his farming and that he has developed one or two new variations in the flower world.

The Kaiser's day is divided thus, as a rule:

6 a. m.—Goes walking in the park of Haus Doorn.

Then plants flowers and plants.

3 to 7 p. m.—devotes himself to writing.

His is a comparatively lonesome life. But he is virtually never alone, for his German guests—the old military men, the professors and the preachers—are always coming to pay their respects and to talk over what can be done to bring back the "good old days," as they term the monarchistic times.

The Doornites do not believe that the Kaiser's plotting is going to bear fruit at once. They do not believe that, vain as he may be, he would attempt now to return to Germany, where he is not beloved. But they do see in the stream of generals, admirals and so on, the laying of a plot the purpose of which is to one day restore Hohenzollernism to the Fatherland. On the day before my visit here, Admiral Trotha and a half dozen clergymen had been the Kaisers guests.

Aid the Preacher

The preachers of this town are doing their best to make it a better place in which to live.

Come and work with them, side by side. Do not sit in the bleachers and scoff.

No American would live in a town where there are no churches, but churches cannot exist without the hearty co-operation of men and women who want the best for themselves and for their children.

Support some church with your time, your energy, your ability.

No man can serve two masters: ye cannot serve God and mammon
